

ABSTRACT

The cosmetic product containing polysaccharide-sterol derivative according to the present invention is constituted of cosmetic materials and a polysaccharide-sterol derivative and is superior in the water-preservativity and in the coating film-forming ability, so that it reveals so-called beautiful skin and beautiful hair, in which the conditions of skin and hair ascribed to dryness, such as rough skin and insufficient luster, are improved and a wet condition due to the moisture-retaining ability is brought about, while attaining at the same time a superior touch feel, whereby it can be used favorably for, for example, skin-care cosmetic products, make-up cosmetic products and cosmetic products for hair conditioning.

DESERIALIZED DOCUMENT